Jorge Veiga has a weird obsession that is ruining his life — he can't walk past a pole without hugging it!

The 28-year-old salesman from Lisbon, Portugal, said he got into the habit as a child, when he always wondered if his arms would reach entirely around telephone poles and pillars he saw. The more he did it the worse the obsession got — until it reached the point where he couldn't stop.

"When I see a pole I have to put my arms around it," he said. "I would do anything if I could just walk on by, but I can't."

It was a horrible day in the desert when starving villagers in a famine-ridden area of Sudan eagerly cut into a shipment of Swiss international Forces had delivered to them — and found 5,000 toothbrushes packed inside!

They were meant for troops stationed elsewhere in Africa but a clerical error caused the terrible foul-up. Then, to make things even worse, officials decided to leave the toothbrushes with the tribesmen.

"We figure we'll just leave the toothbrushes with them because they might end up needing them someday," one bigwig said.

The big news out of Hamsun, Norway, is that the Hyrrod family has continued its incredible 70-year tradition of New Year's babies.

Great-grandmother Ingrid started the amazing streak when she was born on January 1 way back in 1911. She then had her first daughter Anna on the same date in 1944. Anna gave birth to Ase on New Year's Day in 1973 and Ase continued the streak this past January 1 when her daughter Anne was born.

VITAMIN C CAN HELP YOU WIN THE LOTTERY!

By ANN VICTORIA / Correspondent

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Eight out of 10 Lotto winners have one amazing thing in common — they all had high levels of vitamin C in their systems when they won their millions!

That's the finding of a startling new study published here last week by a renowned sociologist, Dr. Michael Vaising.

The study has indisputably linked large doses of vitamin C to what is commonly called "good luck."

The research team headed by Dr. Vaising sent detailed questionnaires to 871 people in France, Australia and America — all of whom had won more than $4 million in lotteries.

"The questionnaire related everything under the sun," said Dr. Vaising. "From what clothes they were wearing when they bought their tickets to what kind of good luck charms they may have used.

"We had no idea what we'd find. We just wanted to see if there was any one thing they all had in common.

thought — just another possibility to explore."

Amazingly, the questionnaires revealed that a whopping 10 percent of the winners drank up to eight glasses of orange juice a day or ate lots of citrus fruits as a snack. The winners also took large doses of vitamin C.

"They were also very concerned about nutrition at the

"But other than the vitamin C, none of the winners ate the same foods. The only thing their diets had in common was the vitamin C."

Bachelor boss makes startling proposal to job applicant

MARRY ME...& YOU'RE HIRED!

By JOE BERGER Staff writer

Love-starved Barney McWatters was so smitten when bachelor gal Sandy Storch sauntered into his office looking for work that he offered the shapely lady a job on the spot — on the condition she marry him that very week!

Staggered Sandy, 26, immediately said yes — and within days the speedy sweeties were honeymooning in the Bahamas.

"I'm usually not a wild and crazy kind of guy, but the minute I saw Sandy, I knew she was the girl for me," gushed starry-eyed Barney, 28.

"She's beautiful, she's intelligent and she has a voice that just knocks me out.

"I was afraid if I let her get away, I'd never find anyone to match her. So two minutes after I met her, I heard myself blurting out a proposal — and when she accepted, I couldn't believe my ears.

"I'm convinced it was the luckiest day of my life."

History's most rapid-fire romance began the day unsuspecting Sandy strolled into Barney's small mail order office outside Chicago looking for work as a secretary.

"I introduced myself and asked for an employment application, and Barney just stood there staring at me for what seemed like the longest time," the delighted bride recalled.

"And then he said, 'I'll give you a job if you marry me, but you're gotta do it this week' — and I thought he had to be joking me on.

"But believe me, when I realized he wasn't joking, I said yes in a hurry. There was something about those blue eyes and that boyish grin that just couldn't resist. I thought to myself, 'I'll take him and the same job, too.'"

Five days later, the lovebirds tied the knot before a hundred stunned friends and relatives. And true to his word, the lucky groom promptly put his new bride to work typing and taking dictation.

"Sandy says she'll sit on my knee to take a letter anytime, but no way will she make the coffee," beaming Barney told reporters.

"She's letting me know this honeymoon thing only goes so far!"

CHICAGO secretary Sandy Storch landed a job and a husband after Barney McWatters popped the question. "It was the luckiest day of my life," gushed the jubilant groom.

Woolly warms say winter will be warm

Folks in Appalachia can look forward to a mild winter with cold snaps at both ends — or at least that's the forecast according to the eastern Kentucky woolly worm.

The fuzzy caterpillar is a surefire indicator of weather to come, says worm lady Rosemary Kilduff of Beattyville, Ky. She and her worm spotters devote weeks to finding the woolly worm in its native habitat and checking out its "wool" for signs of weather ahead.

This year the worm judge counted 201 worms, 111 of which were solid black, indicating that the start and the finish of winter would involve harsh weather. The majority of the caterpillars were light, however, a sure sign that the middle part of winter would be mild.

Miss Kilduff, who has been giving worm forecasts for 12 years now, concedes that her fuzzy friends are inaccurate from time to time, but she says that "accurate eruptions and other major environmental events are to fuse the meteorologists," she says. "So what's a woolly

BIRDS BUILD NESTS WITH $500,000

COCAINE underworld expert: Dr. Ramon Cruz.

By ANN VICTORIA / Correspondent

LA PAZ, Bolivia — Authorities here have confiscated 16 birds' nests with a total value of more than half a million dollars, nests made entirely of leaves, dirt — and cold, hard cash!

Federal officers discovered the nests, belonging to a flock of parrots, while investigating a ring of drug dealers who operate in the mountains near the southern city of Uyuni.

Parrots tend to live together in large communities, building their nests close together. In fact, all 16 of the nests were found within 10 feet of one another.

Apparently the birds stole the folding money from the dealers.

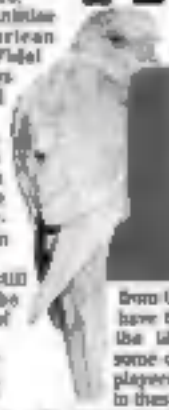
"The gang sold large quantities of cocaine to major American smugglers," says Officer Fidel Perez. "And there was always American cash involved in all the transactions.

"Over a period of years the parrots must have flown through an open window in the gang's hideout, stole the bills a few at a time and carried them up to their nests in the Andes Mountains."

Although officers have still not located the hideout, the nests have provided lots of helpful evidence.

"The nests confirm our suspicions that the dealers are operating in this area," says Officer Perez.

"And we've lifted some very valuable fingerprints from the bills that have tipped us to the identities of some of the major players involved in these crimes."



Dr. Ramon Cruz, noted Bolivian sociologist and author of The Dynamics of Extortion, whips Within the Drug Culture, believes that many of the gang members may have been murdered because of the nests.

"Suspicion and paranoia run rampant in the cocaine business," says Dr. Cruz. "The disappearance of the money was probably blamed on someone in the gang. We might reasonably assume that the other gang members were quick to execute the people they suspected of the theft.

"Who knows how many people died because they were falsely blamed for the American bills because it's easier to launder than Bolivian money.

But Bolivian officials are claiming the right to keep the bills because they were discovered here.

To further complicate matters, many animal rights activist groups are angry that the nests are being destroyed.

"These birds have been badly stressed," says Diego Lopez of the South American Bird Watchers' Society.

"Their homes are being destroyed. Some of them may die because soon, it is too

SILY squirrel takes an injury — then attacks!

By LISA MERIANOS/ Correspondent

Ten people have been attacked and badly mauled by a rampaging rodent, a cute little fuzzy-tailed squirrel who is so savage he's being called The Fur-minator!

Incredibly, the male gray squirrel lures his victims to him by pretending he's injured and needs their help, then jumps on them and bites them.

So far, a teenage boy, eight women and one 4-year-old child have fallen victim to the fur-ocious furball and three of them had to be hospitalized. All described the surprise attacks as terrifying.

"He looked like such a cuddly little creature, but he came on like a hairy ax man," said Anita Sladey, 54, who lives in the suburbs of Seattle, Wash. "He was nuts.

"I was pulling him to see if he was still breathing and he clamped onto my fingers and bit and scratched me.

"He was making little squeaking noises and blood was everywhere."

"A passerby helped pry him off my hand or he'd still be hanging on, chewing away. It was horrible."

According to police, the savage gray squirrel attacked his first victim last August. The animal ran at a 33-year-old woman while she was picking berries, viciously biting her and badly injuring her legs and hands. She was being treated in a hospital emergency room when Anita Sladey showed up for medical aid and described her experience to the doctors.

Realizing that there was a dangerous squirrel on the loose, doctors contacted police. Since then, eight more people have been attacked by the same animal. "They had to give us all rabies shots just in the side case, but they don't think the squirrel is rabid," Mrs. Sladey said.

"They think he's just plain mean, that's all. He bit one lady so bad she nearly bled to death before they could close up her severed artery. I think they should trap him and kill him."

But soft-hearted animal welfare workers say they don't think the frustrated squirrel should be eliminated. Instead, they want it to be captured and released in a rural area.

"That's not right," Mrs. Sladey says angrily.

"This little monster is dangerous and he should be destroyed. As long as he's out there, no creature is safe."

...they thought it was a masterpiece!

By JOE BERGER Staff writer

Bumbling plumber Danny Trullo dumped an armload of wrenches, rusty pipes, plungers and other junk in the corner of a fashionable art gallery — and a fat-cat art connoisseur snapped up the unsightly stuff for a whopping $20,000!

"I was beside myself when I opened up that morning and spotted all those greasy pipes and things lying out there on my floor," recalled flabbergasted gallery boss Bertrand Wildegaard.

"But before I could even find out who the mess belonged to, Marcus Hadger, the collector, and his wife Elizabeth walked in and started raving about how beautiful it was.

"They thought it was a damn piece of art and wanted to buy the thing — so I said what the hell, I'll let it go for $20,000.

"I was just kidding, but the next thing I knew, the man had his checkbook out and his wife was figuring out how they were going to haul it home."

The tale of art and illiury began when the manager of Bertrand's building in a posh Los Angeles suburb called a plumber to unplug a toilet in the rear of the gallery.

LEO REECH

"I knew Bertrand had a big show starting that morning, so I arranged to meet Danny Trullo there at 8 a.m. so he could get in and get the johns working good before the gallery opened," landlord Leo Reech told reporters. "I let him in and went on my way figuring the job would be a snap."

But the pestbrained plumber tore the toilet apart, then sauntered out for a cup of coffee — leaving his pipes and paraphernalia in a pile on the gallery floor.

And when he got back, dingbat Danny is discovered he'd locked himself out of the building — so he went home to take a nap.

"I'd spent the previous night getting the place spotless, and then I get there that morning and found plumbing stuff all over the floor next to the bathrooms," Bertrand recalled.

"I was trying to figure out who to call to get that junk out of there when the Hadgers walked in, looked around and headed straight for those tools and stuff in the corner.

"And five minutes later, they were the proud owners of a $20,000 pile of junk."

DANNY TRULLO

Hadger later learned that their art find was a phony, but the truth hasn't fazed them a bit.

"Mr. Wildegaard tried to tell us that this wasn't a real sculpture, but we loved it so much we refused to listen — and we still love it," said the spectacle-rimmed art lover. "We've had it reassembled exactly as we found it and it's on display in my den at this very moment.

"People will think I'm crazy, but I truly believe this is the best $20,000 buy I've made in some time and I may just commission Danny Trullo to do us another one.

FACES OF JESUS OVER TEXAS!

JUDGMENT DAY is near! Dr. Anthony Padula.

MASS HYSTERIA: Dr. Bernard Montcalf has his doubts.

EYEWITNESS: Terrance Holtze

The unmistakable faces of Jesus Christ and Satan appeared eye-to-eye in the sky over West Texas on January 5 — and Bible scholars say the confrontation signals the beginning of the final, earth-shattering battle between good and evil!

Before two dozen stunned witnesses watched as the awful, mile-high images materialized and hovered in the clouds over a desolate plain southeast of El Paso — and one alert tourist snapped a heart-stopping photo of the chilling event.

By LAURIE BOWIE
Special report

"The faces were there, clear and distinct. This photograph and the eyewitness accounts prove that beyond any reasonable doubt," insists prominent Dallas theologian Dr. Anthony Padula.

"And that can mean only one thing — that Judgment Day as foretold in the Book of Revelations is upon us or at least very near.

"Why the Lord chose this way or this location to signal the coming of Armageddon, only He knows. But the fact is, it's been done — so let the world be warned."

The awe-inspiring images were first spotted by Canadian tourist Terrance Holtze, 23, when he stopped to rest on a lonely stretch of road 40 miles outside El Paso.

"I was driving to visit my cousin at a dude ranch out in the middle of nowhere and had stopped to stretch my legs when I saw something very weird happening in the sky to my north," the Toronto businessman recalled.

"The wind was blowing hard and the clouds seemed to be swirling very fast, and then all at once the wind quieted down. Suddenly the two images were there in the sky face-to-face, almost nose to nose — and there was no doubt in my mind that I was seeing Jesus and the Satan squaring off right before my eyes.

"I grabbed my camera and took two or three pictures, and then I was overcome by a powerful feeling of dread and my whole body began to tremble.

"I've never been really religious, but those visions were so striking and that feeling was so overpowering that I dropped to my knees and prayed for salvation. If I had never believed before, at that moment — and from that moment on — I believed."

Minutes later, a bus carrying 34 tourists and dude-ranch hands approached and Terrance flagged it down.

"I wanted them to see what I saw, because I knew if I was the only witness, the world would never believe what went on up there that day," Terrance said. "And it's a good thing the others came along when they did, because within five minutes the images had vanished as suddenly as they had appeared."

All 35 witnesses — including Terrance and the bus driver — have been interviewed by Dr. Padula and other theologians investigating the bizarre sighting, and their sworn depositions have been forwarded to Pope John Paul II at the Vatican.

"The Pope is very interested in these reports and has ordered a full and thorough investigation," a Vatican source said.

"He feels convinced there is a message in this — perhaps a dire warning — for all of mankind."

Other Bible scholars seem inclined to write off the visions as a figment of the witnesses' imagination. "There are indications that the entire episode is a product of mass hysteria," said Los Angeles theologian Dr. Bernard Montcalf. "It is difficult to believe that the Lord would choose this means to deliver a message of such extreme implications."

But Dr. Padula notes that this is not the first time the face of Jesus has appeared to stunned witnesses in the past year.

"Last February thousands of people saw the Lord appear over war-torn Somalia to mock the same fanatics as this latest sighting," he said. "For us to deny that there is a message here — a message of utmost urgency — would be a very grave mistake on

How To Grow HAIR IN ONLY 12 WEEKS

(Specially to Hollywood) — "Nobody has to be bald," says Raquelle Hudson, the internationally famed and licensed expert in hair care. "I have the knowledge to grow hair on women without drugs, chemicals or surgery." She has grown hair on hundreds of heads."

Raquelle operates a hair rejuvenation clinic in Hollywood and has more than 750 clients—most of whom are referrals from satisfied clients. She has appeared on the David Letterman and Merv Griffin shows.

If you have a shiny hair growth program probably can't help you. But if you will have "peach fuzz" the 7-step program revealed in her new book, Grow Hair in 12 Weeks may be just what you've been searching for. The program requires only one hour a week for results.

If you follow the new rejuvenation program in her book, Raquelle guarantees that (1) "peach fuzz" will turn into hair in only 12 weeks; (2) hair texture will be visibly transformed; (3) further hair loss will stop.

The book also explains what hair is, how it grows and why men and women lose their hair. You'll discover why hair becomes dull and lifeless and what to do about it. The book explains the art of brushing your hair and how your comb and brush may sexually affect hair growth. You'll even learn how to eat your hair to promote growth and crush colds.

The book covers actual case histories of men and women who have experienced hair growth follow-up her hair rejuvenation program. Actual before and after photographs are shown in the book.

You can order the book, Grow Hair in 12 Weeks, on a no-risk trial basis. You must be 100 percent satisfied or receive the book anytime within 1 year for a refund, no questions asked. To order send only $10.95 (plus $3 shipping) to: United Research Publishers, 103 N. Highway 101, Dept. WB-03

CINDY CRAWFORD: I'M WHITE TRASH AND PROUD OF IT

SEXY Cindy Crawford is anything but upscale — and she admits it.

Supermodel Cindy Crawford is regularly mistaken for being Italian, Greek, Spanish, even American Indian — but Mrs. Richard Gere knows exactly who she is.

"White trash is what I am," says Cindy proudly. "Richard calls me white trash, and I say, 'You're not allowed to call me white trash. I'm allowed!' "

Feminist critic Camille Paglia sees Cindy otherwise.

"She has a wonderful dusky quality, a multicultural quality that the mass audience must be identifying with," says Paglia.

"Under the surface, there's something that's non-Caucasian.

"I'm thinking that what's under there might be Native American. She looks like whatever, maybe an Apache princess."

Crawford's heritage is "mostly German [illegible] that I think there is a lot of other stuff mixed in along the way that I don't know about."

Whatever Cindy is, she must be the hardest-working supermodel in the business.

"It's very hard for me to say no, coming from a family where you never had enough," she says about working 300 days a year for over a decade.

TOO fat to be sexy, says Pres.

troopers have had their say, the editors of People magazine must be kicking themselves.

They came this close to hitting the nail right on the head when interviewing the First Couple just before Christmas.

"We have a confession to make," gushed the editors, "which is that we came within a hair of naming the President-People's Sexiest Man Alive in 1992. And we didn't do it . . ."

The First said "Thanks a lot," and laughed. "You know I'm still fat!" The First Lady said. "You could run a little article: 'We would have but . . .'" and laughed.

What are all these people laughing about?

Country music queen Naomi Judd was galley proofs of her tell-all auto-bio, Love Can Build A Bridge, to her mother Polly — she didn't want Mom to hear the juicy bits from someone else.

"The hardest part to tell was about Mom's life," says Naomi.

"I can own up to my own stuff, but the fact that her grandfather hung himself and tried to get his children and her father either about himself in the head or my grandma killed him, gives a new meaning to our song, Grandpa."

Naomi turns over a lot of rocks in this blockbuster book.

"I knew it scared the you-know-what out of everybody when they heard I was writing a book.

"They should pay separate salaries big money in acknowledgment. Harvey has the body of a mayonnaise jar."

And Holly Hunter? "Not exactly Sharon Stone," says Cindy.

"Holly's face and the odd thing is, when she removes that boop-a-doop she wears to the movie her behind is still the cutest ass. If I wanted to see unattractive bodies making love, I could have the light on in my own house."

Psycho stalks 'Pretty Woman' Julia Roberts

It's Julia Roberts' turn to be terrorized by a psycho fan

The Pretty Woman star is receiving nightmare letters from a self-styled stalker

"It's all so scary because it's all so sick," says Julia's hubby, country singer Lyle Lovett.

"Even with the guards around I'm afraid to leave for a weekend."

Private eyes have been up a month on the case of the "Pretty Woman" type in the 30s and she's relieved.

Evidently enough Julia's been told. The mystery letter is about a woman in her personal life, reports. But the letter reveals are quite sure it's not about the star but someone else.

"She's dealing with it all very well and not letting it get to her. She's a strong person."

Sex symbol Jane Seymour nearly died from an allergic reaction to an antibiotic shot, the Queen of the Miniseries says something at the end of the tunnel. "I had an out-of-body experience, which I never believed in," says Jane. "It was the white light, the whole thing."

Jane realized then that love kept her alive. "Loving somebody and being loved. It's the key to my health. I feel happiest when I am in a relationship or being loved. I take better care of myself and I am healthier.

"When I am not in a relationship, I become depressed and put myself under a lot of stress. Then my health falters."

Jane's health is excellent. She recently exchanged wedding vows with her fourth hubby, James Keach, an actor-director and younger brother of Stacy Keach. The couple were spliced by New Age guru Marianne Williamson in a desire to die in the other's arms."

Make This Your New Year's Resolution . . .

HOW TO EARN UP TO $17,500.00 IN ONE WEEK

Does the thought of making up to $454,742.39 in the next six months appeal to you?

Could you use an extra $17,500.00 next week? Are you willing to work one or two hours a day to achieve real wealth this year?

If you answered "yes" to these questions, then I'm certain you'll want to learn more about my incredibly powerful GUARANTEED method of making up to $17,500.00 per week—every week—right from your own home in spectacular.

This kind of success can easily be made without quitting your present job, or taking high risks with any of your hard earned money.

You'll be able to start this business immediately — and your profits will be rolling in within days.

☑ If you're looking for a perfect part-time business, with almost no work required -- then this isn't for you!

☑ If you're operating with very little start up capital, yet you want to make up to $500,000.00 or more per year -- then this isn't really for you!

☑ If you've recently lost all your money, and you need to start a great business that will support you for life -- then this isn't definitely for you!

☑ And if you have had credit for so many at all'y and you don't know the first thing about running a business -- then this isn't absolutely for you!!

But first, let me tell you a little more about myself, so you can see just how easy this money making program really is. Unlike other advertisers in this magazine, I do not have a "hype to relate" story to tell. I started out as an average guy, just like you, looking for an easy way to make some good money.

In my spare time, I mailed every money making program I could get my hands on. I would order, on the average, about 10 new money making programs a month. You might say my hobby was to investigate money making plans.

Some of the programs I sent away for were pretty good. But two of the programs I discovered were more than good.

Actually, they were fantastic.

But in each one of these programs, something important was missing. It was absent in all the millions of these programs got to a certain point, thought they had the money making formulas completed, and then quit.

But what they failed to realize was that by adding one more ingredient to their plans, they could skyrocket what were already good plans and make them astonishingly money making plans!

And this is exactly what has been done.

As soon as I got together the missing ingredients, I combined these programs, put them to work, and then ... Bingo! Check out the action:

In the first 90 days, income = $189,392.04!!!

In the next 90 days, income = $264,875.34!!!

And the success, I might add, was produced without ever having left the house! And this money was based upon working less than one hundredth of one percent of the possible program! And the greatest part about this program is ... it won't end! As long as there are people in the world, my program will continue to make big money!

As you can probably imagine, this was exactly what I had been searching for all these years. And the best part of it is, you don't even have to leave your home to make this kind of money!

[illegible]

Fortunately, the marvelous system of making money requires no investment capital or demonstrable intelligence (I had neither).

It was a cheap little scheme one of the multi-level marketing plans. It required no personal selling, and no office. What you'll discover is a incredibly powerful money making program with almost 300 pages. The author invests a designed the one purpose to apply, learn, and to use the step other money making system advertised today.

This plan is so easy that literally anyone can follow it into one word simple English. And I fully guarantee the success of this plan because others who have used it for the past two years have consistently made at least $10,000 or more each and every week of the year.

I know that the idea of producing $17,500+ per week may seem too good to be true. That is why I would like to show some very proven testimonials with you — personal bank deposits for six months. Four years ago I would have been ecstatic if you told me someone could be making $454,742.39 in six months or less. But, check out these bank deposits which

WHY I WANT TO SHARE THIS PLAN WITH YOU

Why am I offering you the astounding wealth building secret? Actually, there are two reasons.

First, even if I stopped making any more money, I would retire quite comfortably right now, and Second, sure that I have as much money as I want, I can't spend my whole day on the golf course! So why not sell something the others can benefit from? Actually, I would give it away free, except that I know people really only value something when they pay for it. So, what I've decided to do is charge a small amount of money for my wealth building program — $[illegible] Per package.

[illegible] GUARANTEE

I am so sure of this guaranteed method of making up to $17,500 a week that I would like to give you the strongest guarantee ever offered for information of this kind. A FULL ONE YEAR NO-QUESTIONS-ASKED MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE. Here's how the confidence! If at any time during the next year you are unable to pocket at least $17,500 per week following my money making instructions, I'll refund your $21.95 no questions asked. Not even -- there's more.

I'll even go one step further. Read the my money-making program and follow the simple steps. Then, if you can show me that others using this same program have not made at least $100,000.00, I will mail you a $100 certified check.

WORLD'S BIGGEST BAR TAB!

Night on the town costs man $143,435!

By JACK ALEXANDER / Staff writer

Bachelor Denis O'Brien never dreamed when he walked into a bar in 1980 to look for friends that it would be the beginning of an incredible ordeal that could cost him $143,435 — and jail time.

"My friends weren't there, so I started to leave. That's when the trouble started," said Denis, a 43 year-old law student.

He had been given a red ticket when he entered the Mousetrap lounge in Charlottesville, Va.

"Every time you order a drink, the waitress logs it on your ticket. When you leave, they total up the tab and you pay the bill," he explained. "But I didn't have anything to drink."

Denis didn't realize he had lost his red ticket until he tried to leave the bar. He vociferously refused to pay a $3 fee, charged for a lost ticket, as the manager called police.

The cops arrested Denis and took him before a magistrate who refused to charge him with anything and told police to release him.

In the months and years that followed, the struggling law student distributed flyers [illegible] complaints about the bar's red ticket policy.

He also filed and lost malicious arrest lawsuits against the restaurant.

"My attorneys missed some filing deadlines and the lawsuits were thrown out," Denis said.

Restaurant owner Duane Brubaker sued Denis in 1981, claiming he damaged the Mousetrap's reputation. A jury awarded the restaurant, which is now closed, $64,000.

Denis claims he wasn't on hand at the trial, which went on without him.

When you add on the accumulated interest, that $64,000 judgment has grown to a whopping $143,435 in the past 11 years.

"I returned from a trip to New Zealand last year because I had been led to believe both sides had agreed to retry the case," Denis said.

But in a hearing before Judge Jay Swartz, Denis was ordered to disclose his assets or the refused and was cited for contempt of court.

"There's going to be a hearing soon. I could go to jail on the contempt charge and still have to pay $143,435. Just because I lost a red ticket."

But Denis says he is ready for a fight.

"I will never pay them a dime. I'll go nose to nose with them forever, if I have to."

MY QUICK FIX FOR TV TRASH: UNPLUG YOUR CABLE!

Three networks are more than enough!

I'm madder than a news anchorman with an upside-down mic cord over some of the garbage they're putting on TV nowadays.

Mom has teen son arrested for messing up his room!

MUNICH, Germany — Jenna Goertz had always forced herself to ignore her son's messy room. But the last straw came when she found him repairing a car engine on his bed — and she had him arrested!

And that brush with the law — and the possibility of going to jail — turned 17-year-old Willie Goertz' life around!

By ROSE GRADY
Correspondent

When cops answered her call, they entered the boy's bedroom and found themselves surrounded by mounds of dirty clothes, moldy half-eaten sandwiches, beer cans and other trash.

And there was Willie, sitting cross-legged in the center of it all stained hat, tooling on the disassembled car mess of a 1967 Volkswagen wagon.

Stunned by the disorder of the room, Police Sgt. Hans Friedrich charged the teenage slob with "... gross disorderly conduct."

"I almost fell over when I saw what and he could do to a room," Sgt. Friedrich declared. "It was an unholy disaster."

Having her son jailed was not an easy decision for Jenna. But the 40-year-old mother of three has always taken pride in the spic-and-span neatness of her home and she works hard at keeping it spotless.

"I've tried to clean his room, but the job was just too much for me," Jenna explained. "I'd go in there with a garbage truck bag and fill it with garbage, only [illegible] no matter how hard I worked, it still looked like a disaster area. I would have needed a bulldozer just to make a dent in that mess. Finally, I just gave up and tried to ignore it.

"Then one day while he was out, I looked in and I almost collapsed. He was repairing an automobile engine. There was dirt and grime everywhere. It smelled like something had died in there — and I'm sure something had.

"It was the straw that broke the camel's back. I love him, no matter what. But I had to be hard to get out. When he said he wouldn't listen, I called the police."

Faced with a 10-day jail term, Willie promised to clean up his act and his room. With that, the judge agreed not to pass sentence as long as the room was kept neat as a pin.

"The change in Willie has been astonishing," the now-proud mom [illegible]

ROGUE ELEPHANT HANGED BY THE NECK!

MODEL Maneka Sanjeeh lost three children to the elephant

AUTHORITIES in India used a railroad crane to hang the massive creature

Beast's rampage claims

By MICKEY McGUIRE

DELHI, India — A rogue elephant that killed at least 20 men, women and children in a month-long rampage of terror was finally captured and put to death — by being hanged by the neck from a railroad crane.

The 4-ton female elephant stampeded from a death-filled and gasping for 31 minutes before she finally strangled to death in the train yard of Hoshiarpur, a village in the Punjab region 210 miles north of here.

When it became obvious that the savage beast was dead, 1 thunderous cheer rose from the more than 4,000 spectators assembled for the bizarre execution.

"She was a devil who killed for the joy of killing," declared Maneka Sanjeeh, a mother who saw three of her five children crushed under the massive feet of the mad marauder.

"My three babies are dead and my husband will never walk again because of the beast. I can only hope that the elephant-God in Hell is now using as rod my bones."

MIRACLE PATCH MELTS AWAY FLAB — WHILE YOU SLEEP!

By KEVIN CRIED / Correspondent

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Hundreds of fat people are reaching their weight-loss goals without diet, effort or exercise thanks to a startling new discovery — a small patch, worn on the skin, that melts pounds away like butter!

Dr. Klas Cumlet, who developed the so-called "Cumlet Patch," showed reporters photos, records and testimonials of 307 people who volunteered for a carefully controlled test of the patch.

All of the subjects were 200 lbs., weight in less than two months without having any adverse effects.

In 180 pounds overweight before the test.

The subjects were instructed not to change their eating habits and not to exercise at all during the experiment.

All they did was wear a one-inch patch on their left arms.

Incredibly, every one of them reached their healthy

"I don't know what the scientists call it but I call it a miracle," says Klara Berg man, who lost 180 pounds using the patch.

"I'm 5-foot-4 and I weighed 380 pounds. I'd tried every diet, appetite pill and exercise plan in the world and couldn't stay with any of them.

"Sixty days after I started wearing the patch, I weighed 142 pounds," she said. "And I've kept the weight off for two months.

"And the crazy thing about it is that I ate like a pig and still do."

The patch works by releasing fat-burning enzymes and endorphins into the system, the same chemicals that the brain creates when people exercise.

"It speeds up metabolism and burns fats through the system quickly, before the body can store it as fat."

Cumlet, 61, spent 20 years perfecting the patch and says he was inspired by the memory of his mother who died of heart problems, brought on by overweight.

"On the day she died, I made up my mind to see that others would not lose loved ones to this fragile killer — obesity."

So far none of the subjects has suffered any health problems after wearing the patch.

But drug experts say more testing must be done before it can be marketed in the United States.

Nevertheless, Dr. Cumlet says he's confident that the product will one day eliminate obesity in the world.

REAL SPACE ALIENS STAR IN SCI-FI MOVIE!

'It'll be a blockbuster hit,' says Hollywood insider!

PRESS AGENT Steve Lagowitz says the film will be released in December 1994.

CARLSBAD, N. M. — Film director Les Parrish says the new science-fiction movie he's shooting will be the most realistic one ever made -- because he's casting real space aliens in the leading roles!

Parrish's film, The New Immigrants, is being shot on a closed set in a secret location, surrounded by heavy security.

"I'm tired of seeing phony movie aliens," says the controversial director, who's known for his unusual projects. "I decide to make another movie star.

Should I pose in the nude for my boyfriend's father?

Confidential

Dear Dave in L.A.: If your wife isn't cheating on you, why does she mess lately call you "John," "Fred," "Mac," "Jack," "Kirk" and "Bill"?

Dear Crushed in Macon: I agree with you 110 percent — Candy is a rotten name for a baby!

Dear Pregnant in Provo: You should have thought about that before you decided to put your virginity on a poker game!

Dear Puzzled in Seattle: Naughty may be too good for your son . . . but it's just right for you!

Dear Furious in Reno: You made a good point — unfortunately, it's on top of your head!

Dear Upside-Down in Syracuse: I hate to tell you this, but if men were as frightened by tampons, they'd fall in love with them, too!

Dear Friends in New Bedford: Will bed bombs and hemorrhoids? You're insane!

Dear Dotti: My boyfriend is a neat guy and all that but he has some weird ideas about sex. I can deal with most of the crazy stuff he wants us to do in the bedroom.

But he's pressuring me to pose nude for a photo session with his dad. I think he's asking me to go above and beyond the call of duty. Please advise. — Wondering in Waukee

Dear Wondering: Tell your boyfriend that you'll pose nude for his dad after he poses nude for his mom. That'll shut the big, fat mouth — I personally guarantee it!

Nose-picking neighbor is destroying my couch!

Dear Dotti: My wife and I moved to Ohio from Florida a few weeks ago and haven't had time to make many friends. We have become acquainted with the couple next door. They're likable enough. But when they came over to our house, the husband picked his nose and wiped his booger on our sofa. These are the only people we have to socialize with right now. What should I do? — Ground Out in Cincinnati

Dear Ground Out: The next person who wiped his head on my couch is still trying to straighten his fingers out. But if you're half as hard up for companionship as you say you are, you might want to overlook his little habit until you find some redneck friends!

Fiance says he needs more than one woman!

Dear Dotti: Almost six months ago I got engaged to a man who is perfect in every way but one. He can't be loyal to one woman and has at least six other girlfriends that I know of. I've asked him to stop seeing other women but he says it's too hard to say true to one girl. We'll be getting married in a few weeks and I'm beginning to think that our marriage will never work. What do you think? — Unsure in Lexington

Dear Unsure: The way I see it you have the use of two things. Your head or that guy's dick. Unless you find a man who has the guts to stay with one girl!

Dopey brother wants to be a two-bit trash collector!

Dear Dotti: You're not going to believe this but my stupid brother wants to be a garbageman when he grows up. It's not like we live in New York, where trash collectors make big bucks. We live in a place where garbagemen make hardly working. Help me help him become a useful member of society! — Disgusted in Dallas

Dear Disgusted: Tell your brother to be master of his own destiny and you have no business telling him what to do. If he wants to throw his life away, that's his decision. Case closed!

You're an ugly old hag & a NEW photo would prove it!

Dear Dotti: Every month or so you tell your readers how great you look. If that's the case, why have you used the same ugly picture for the past 10 years? — Skeptic in Omaha

Dear Skeptic: I update my picture every January, you're broke — and don't you EVER forget it!

Dear Dotti will answer your letters — and quit it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, P.O. Box 662847, Dallas, Texas 75266.

Ask Serena

I was wondering who got my wife pregnant?

Dear Serena: I married a wonderful gal back in 1980 and after years of trying, she's finally gotten pregnant. I know this sounds awful, but I'm not so sure that the baby is mine because doctors have always told me that I have a low sperm count and warned that I might never be able to have kids.

I don't want to accuse my wife of cheating on me and that's why I'm writing to you. Is the baby mine — or not? — Skeptic in Hartford

Dear Skeptic: Your wonderful wife wouldn't dream of cheating on you. Rest easy. The baby is definitely yours!

Dear Serena: Can you bankrupt last month and I seem to be having [illegible] I've got a son [illegible] employment any [illegible] Serena. I'll [illegible] son — Desperate in Armonia

Dear Desperate: An old friend of yours is opening an auto parts store seven short blocks from your house. He needs help and will gladly give you a job that will eventually make you rich!

Dear Serena: I think my youngest son has joined a gang. He has weird friends coming over to the house and he's acting real goofy like he's on drugs. When I try to talk to him he laughs at me like I'm an idiot. Please tell me what's going on! — Worry in Wichita

Dear Worry: Your son has got a role in his school play, "Man Like Mary," and is taking it a little too seriously. Talk to him right away. With a little love and encouragement, he'll soon see the error of his ways!

WOMAN, 58, UNDER POLE OFF ARM TO

Desperate grandmom Emilia Cortez was trapped for two days by a collapsed high-tension electric pole, but she found herself in guilt the aid of her baby grandson — by chewing off her own badly burned arm!

TRAPPED CHEWS ESCAPE!

HEROIC Emilia Bustos was forced to chew off her arm to save her life. The fearless woman's ordeal began when she was pinned to the ground by a utility pole.

'I had to get back home to feed my grandkids'

Carmen newspaper. "From then on all I could think of was the little boys. I tried and tried to get my arm free, but there was no way I could get it loose.

"Finally, I realized that if I didn't free myself somehow I would probably die out in the hills — and my grandkids would starve to death at home."

Emilia says she tried prying her arm loose using a tree limb as a wedge, but the heavy concrete pole wouldn't budge. Then she tried pulling her arm out from under the pole but the excruciating pain caused her to back off with every attempt. Finally in her desperation the woman remembered how that trapped animals sometimes gnaw their way to freedom by biting off the limb they cannot free.

"That's what I decided to do," she recalls. "I began chewing on my burned arm. Amazingly it was so badly burned that I didn't feel much pain from the bites ... and because it had been reacted by the high voltage wire, it didn't bleed much, either."

The widow says it took her about two hours to chew herself free. She then walked a mile through rough terrain to get to her house. Incredibly, she then fed her grandsons, bandaged her wounded arm, harnessed up her burro and rode four more miles for help.

"It was hard, but I would do it again to save my grandkids," said the brave grandmother.

Happy hoofers start 31,600-mile trek!

Live-wire couple waltzing around the world

By TONY CASSIDY / Correspondent

Twinkle-toed twosome Kitty and Jeff Cassell are making a Herculean bid for their own special niche in The Guinness Book of Records — by dancing around the world in three-quarter time!

The ballroom dance buffs -- who hope to cover a whopping 31,600 miles — are determined to waltz from California to New York.

There they'll board a chartered jet that will airlift them still dancing up a storm — to merry old England. From there, Kitty and Jeff will walk their way to France via the newly opened English Channel tunnel.

If they can keep up the torrid pace, their quest will then take them across France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Romania and around the north rim of the Black Sea into the former Soviet Union. Then the hoofers will dip down through the eastern tip of Turkey into Iran and Pakistan. They will greet China in Shanghai for a dancing flight to Japan.

Another chartered jet will take them to Hawaii, then on to San Francisco where a gala celebration awaits.

"We would like to go through as many states as possible," Jeff said. "And we think we can beat the deal by pretty much skirting the coast to advantage, and hope to dance through more than a dozen foreign countries.

"We, late or date, that will be the realization of a dream Kitty and I have shared for many years. Ever since I came to Vancouver," explained Jeff, who in younger days harbored another dream of being another Fred Astaire.

"I was 14 when I went to study dance in Chicago in 1967. That's where I met Kitty. She was just 16. It was love at first sight and after a few months we tied the knot.

"We realized that neither of us had the talent to be stars. But we didn't want to stop dancing, so we moved to San Francisco and opened a dance studio. That was over 20 years ago and we've been together ever since.

"We had a real kick going our Vancouver. But the hard part was getting the ability to shelve the job. In fact, if it hadn't been for our friends, we'd have had to cancel our dream.

"They were absolutely fantastic," Kitty chimed in. "They packed their suitcases, did some high powered wheeling and dealing and not only paid for the flights but made all the arrangements. We'll never forget what they've done to help make our dream come true."

Kitty and Jeff travelled their dance around the world just in case the they've outlived their way out of California and across Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas into Louisiana.

Weekly World News caught up with the amazing hoofers in New Orleans and tagged along as they danced their way east, east, then north to New York.

"We know lots of people will think we're insane," Kitty said. "But what kind of life is it when you can't go after a dream?"

This is something Jeff and I have shared through all the years we've been together.

"We weren't able to have kids so maybe planning this adventure made up for that loss.

"Anyway, our friends understand what we're doing. And we're going to make it into the record book. We've always known that as long as we have each other, there isn't anything we can't do."

MYSTERY DISEASE TURNS 30-YEAR-OLD WOMEN INTO KILLERS!

A terrifying new mystery disease is crippling women across America — and every single victim is exactly 30 years old!

Doctors admit they are baffled by the new ailment which causes depression so severe that victims often commit suicide or murder. It was first identified three years ago in Arizona and has since spread to Oregon, Massachusetts and Louisiana. Doctors say they know of no other disease in which the age of victims is so uniform.

"We have no idea why all of the victims are the same age," said an understandably worried official at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. "We have compared their lifestyles, their backgrounds, their physical conditions ... nothing matters.

"The problem is the disease appears to be contagious. Last month we saw three times as many cases as we saw the month before. We're getting concerned."

Doctors who have treated the mystery malady say the same symptoms appear in each person. First, the victim becomes moody, sleeps poorly and begins entertaining suicidal thoughts. Then she experiences panic attacks, loss of appetite and insomnia, memory loss and chronic fatigue.

The onset of these early symptoms, the women seem to lose control often killing themselves or attempting to kill friends or family members. Doctors have treated victims with counseling or drug therapy, but to date none have been cured.

Experts first recognized the mystery malady in June, when a housewife in Phoenix, Ariz., was admitted to a private clinic with symptoms of severe depression. The woman had tried to commit suicide and told doctors she had planned and killing her husband and

"All the victims of the mysterious ailment, without exception, have been married with children and the oldest was 30 years old," said Dr. [illegible] Centers for Disease Control. "Every single victim was 30 years old, and suddenly we're seeing the trend."

HOW TO WAKE UP LOOKING LIKE A MILLION BUCKS!

Hey, ladies, you don't have to wake up with tangled hair, puffy eyes and bad breath. With just a little effort the night before, any woman can start the day looking beautiful.

That's the advice of beauty experts Georgette Klinger and Marlene Rodriguez, who say by spending 30 minutes on beauty care at night, you can start the day looking your best. For example:

● Spend as much time removing makeup as you did putting it on. All the tugging and pulling causes premature lines around the eyes. Use a water-based remover pad and gently pat makeup off.

● Don't use heavy oils and creams at night. The oil seeps into your ducts, causing puffiness around the eyes in the morning.

● Clean oily skin with a strong cleansing agent at night — and don't use night creams.

● Use a non-astringent cleanser on dry skin, then use a non-greasy cream. A half-hour before going to bed, apply a night cream or moisturizer which is nearly translucent on the skin, a totally absorbent cream which stands in immediately. Then, just before going to bed, dampen a cotton ball with ice water. Pat it over your face, being careful not to rub.

● Never wear curlers to bed. Wash your hair and use a tangle free lotion. Blow your hair dry and brush it into a natural style to keep it from being tangled in the morning.

● Keep your breath fresh. Use dental floss or a water pick at night. This will keep your mouth from having a sour odor in the morning.

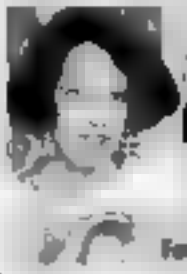
Nursing mom causes riot!

A dozen passengers were injured during a riot that erupted on a train outside Bodø, Norway — when a male commuter complained about a young mom nursing her baby to public!



GIANT HOROSCOPE

By MARILYN WILLMAN
ASTROLOGER TO THE RICH AND FAMOUS

For the week of Sun., Jan. 24 — Sat., Jan. 30

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Hold it!

Don't throw anything printed away, unless you've read it thoroughly. The printed word could really bring you good fortune — or cash — in a surprising way.

You will hear from someone who has been out of touch for some time. Be wary in your dealings with them, and keep in mind the reason you haven't kept in touch!

Express your love to someone.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May

Let it all hang out!

Now is not the time to throw a smoke screen around your heart. Let others know your true feelings. You'll be the better for it.

Make your estate and needs clear in a love relationship. Things will work out just as you hoped they would.

Act quickly in a business matter and get the jump on your competitors. Don't hesitate!

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Make time for good times!

Happiness can be yours this week and good fortune smiles on you.

An exciting affair itself and things could get downright romantic. Take advantage of any and all situations that make you feel loved.

You can look forward to some pretty nice rewards for all the hard work you've put in.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Lucky you!

It looks like an upbeat week all the way. Everyone notices a new gleam in your eye, and a little more zip in the way you move.

Be alert for the financial opportunity that's coming your way. You won't want to miss this one.

Get advice from a trusted, older friend. Their experience is what you need most at this point.

Gamble a little, too!

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Cool your jets!

Don't fly off the handle. Take care of anything needy in your usual calm manner.

It's worked for you before. And, while you're usually right, this probably isn't the time to point that out!

New friends there you and romance is on the upswing — if you take the first step and talk it up.

Get out and get partying!

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Things are heating up!

Romantically, this could be a heartwarming time for you and a loved one. If it's been a long time since you told someone that you care, don't put it off any longer.

Look for a way to get extra financial income. It doesn't have to be long range, just some day-to-day ways to make a little more.

And don't worry — this money situation will soon calm down.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Let your hair down!

Someone you love will make you an offer you simply can't resist. Don't hesitate! Take them up on it.

Numbers translate into money this week. It probably won't be a big bonanza, but could be enough to pay off some of your more pressing bills.

Look at past solutions to problems and you'll find the help you need now!

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Take a chance!

Now is a good time to go for any changes that you've been thinking about.

Trust your instincts. They'll do well by you — so would.

A family member may come extra responsibility to come your way, be prepare for it now. Your help will mean a good deal more than you realize.

Spread some hugs around!

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Don't be timid!

Your responses should be fortuitous. You're right — so act like you're right. You have what it takes to make people see reason. Use this talent wisely, though. Too much force could seem more like bullying.

Someone you know needs some help. Give it. Your caring concern will be rewarded.

Travel carefully!

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Keep your nose to the grindstone!

Get unfinished chores done and worry no doing what you're so good at. You won't regret it!

Take steps to improve how others see you, so you can really show the world what you're made of.

Promise yourself you won't let life pass you by even one more day.

Don't stray far from home. Loved ones may need you.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

It's time for TLC!

Tender loving care — for you! You're always handing it out, so why not be on the receiving end for a change?

You may have been under some sort of stress lately, but it lets up toward the end of the week. Let yourself breathe a little easier.

Don't spend time worrying

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Easy does it!

Your hectically paced life-style should be calming down soon. Take full advantage of some well-earned relaxation time.

If your mate or partner has been feeling left out of things, now would be a good time to make up for it. But remember, they should accept you "as is," or look else-

Man-like gators

Bizarre reptiles have human hands,

By SCOTTY PAUL Correspondent

Two terrified fishermen were nearly eaten alive when their boat tipped over in a Georgia [illegible] — [illegible] they were attacked by two grotesque hissing [illegible] described as half-man, half-alligator.

The ghastly prehistoric monsters were identical to one captured 500 miles south in the Big Cypress Swamp near Naples, Fla., last November.

"From the waist down they were gators. From the waist up the damned things looked human with hands, arms and a head like a skeleton," said frightened fisherman Luke Durney.

Stunned scientists say there is no doubt the prehistoric gator men are an early ancestor of man that took a wrong turn somewhere on the winding road of evolution.

Durney and his buddy Jimmy Joe Willis had been fishing for about two hours in the Okefenokee Swamp south of Waycross, Ga., when they saw something that "scared the living daylights" out of them.

"It looked like the rotting skull of a dead bear, but its eyes were wide open."

Creatures are identical to one captured in Florida last fall

Willis said "The A.G.B. had arms and hands, but the rest of him was all gator. Hell, I was so damn scared I couldn't move. That's when I heard Luke shout, 'There's another one over there.'"

The frightened fishermen were about 30 feet from shore when the bizarre-looking beasts swam under their small boat and tipped it over.

"We lost everything — our bait, our poles, everything but our lives, and we didn't dare lost them," Durney told Weekly World News.

"I never swam so hard and fast in all my life. Three monsters chased us to the shore. We scrambled up the bank and didn't stop running until we reached our pickup truck.

"Those were demons straight from hell. They were at least six feet long and all gator from the waist down."

The NEWS immediately contacted Dr. Kimon Bhatia, the paleontologist who has been studying the half-human reptile captured alive in Florida last November.

"The creature has responded quite well to captivity," he said.

"Preliminary tests show that he is definitely half-human male and half reptile. He is a hearty eater and has

MAN CHEATS ON WIFE 347 TIMES

GOTCHA! Graham Deitwhist is caught with girlfriend No. 233

GOTCHA AGAIN! Graham is caught with lover No. 347

FORGIVING WIFE Cora Deitwhist gives her unfaithful husband another chance

... but she gives him ONE MORE CHANCE!

By R. NEALE LINE
Correspondent

Betrayed wife Cora Deitwhist has decided not to divorce her philandering husband, even though he cheated on her — 347 times!

Mrs. Deitwhist hired a private investigator to follow her husband through Boston for the nine-month period between February and October of 1991 because she suspected he may have been having an affair.

The result: 1,218 photographs showing Graham Deitwhist in compromising positions with 347 women.

"Naturally I was hurt and angry at first," said Mrs. Deitwhist in an interview with Strong Marriage magazine.

"I was even considering leaving him. But when I confronted him with the evidence, he was so sweet and remorseful that I just couldn't let our marriage go without giving him another chance.

"People take marriage too lightly these days. They're ready to get divorced before giving the relationship a fair chance. I decided to go public with this in order to show that a good marriage can withstand stress. Forgiveness is the key."

Morton Croyne, the investigator who snapped the telltale shots, says he's never seen a man who had more extramarital sex. Croyne's private eyes don't discuss their investigations, but since Mrs. Deitwhist published the details of the case, Croyne has left free to comment.

"I've seen some womanizers in my 20-year career but this guy takes the cake," says Croyne.

"He made out like gangbusters. I was exhausted just following him around.

"Every morning, he'd kiss his wife goodbye and leave his house early enough to meet at least one woman before showing up for work.

"Then, at his job as a realtor, he would have lunchtime rendezvous with female buyers and sellers.

"In the evenings, he'd tell his wife he was dining with clients, then dash out the door to meet women sometimes as many as three a night.

"It was like he had two full time jobs, one as a millionaire realtor and the other as a womanizer."

Croyne said Deitwhist was known to have sex with six women in a single day.

"What can I say," Deitwhist, 38, told reporters. "I made a mistake and let my hormones get the best

World's longest fingernails

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

NEW DELHI, India — Easygoing Ramesh Sharma wouldn't hurt a fly, but kids scream and run for cover when the good natured guy walks by — because his five-foot-long fingernails jut from his hand like a monster's claws!

"My nails are so brittle there is no way they could hurt anyone, but the children don't always understand that," soft spoken Sharma told a reporter.

"The little ones think I'm some kind of ogre out of a horror movie, and even the adults get my way because they think there must be something wrong with anybody who has fingernails like that."

The bespectacled businessman hasn't trimmed the nails on his left hand for more than 30 years, saying him with talons so he's helping even his own children cringe in fear.

"In 1962 I started looking for a hobby and I thought letting my fingernails grow would be something simple and amusing to do," Sharma recalled.

"By 1963 the newspapers were writing stories about me so I decided to keep going to see how long they would grow."

By 1979 the decorator was who operates his own advertising agency, and was a real success in life, he gave up trimming his nails altogether.

"I always wanted to be very neat and tidy and now I do," he says as he proudly displays his perfectly manicured fingernails.

"I can't do certain jobs around the house as a result, but I don't mind. I'm very comfortable and I like it."

Sharma says he has to be very careful when he goes out in public, but there are times when people are not so polite.

"Over the years I've also had to be very careful when I go out in public, but there are times when people are cruel. They shout at me — because they think I'm a monster — and sometimes they even throw stones at me. I don't like it, but I've learned to live with it."

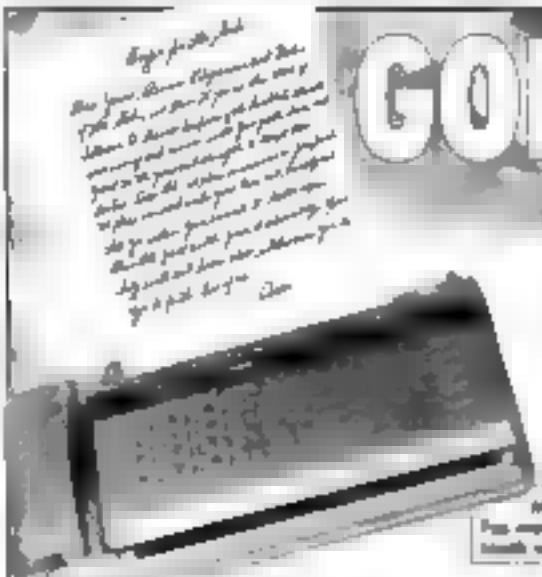
Thousands healed after transmitting prayers electronically

GOD CURING THE SICK & LAME — BY FAX!



MODERN MIRACLE: Fax machine can put you in touch with Heaven!

Thousands of people claim they've been miraculously cured of deadly and debilitating ailments after faxing prayers to God through an Israeli phone company in Jerusalem.

By SCOTTY PAUL
Correspondent

"I prayed that my dear husband, Saul, might walk again," said housewife Hanna Yisrael of Tel Aviv. "A week later Saul, paralyzed after an auto accident, got up out of his wheelchair and walked for the first time in 19 years.

"We both hugged each other and cried our eyes out.

"It was as though Saul and I had been reborn."

Hanna is one of thousands of worshipers who say God has answered prayers they've faxed to Bezek, the Israeli national phone company, which then stuffs the prayers in the stone crannies of the Wailing Wall, Judaism's holiest shrine.

Any prayer crammed in the wall is likely to be answered by God, according to tradition.

"I know God answers our prayers but I had just about given up any hope that my little girl would ever hear the sound of my voice. ... [illegible] ... the birds sing or the patter of rain on a rooftop," said Yosefi Schocket.

Schocket's daughter was born deaf and diabetic. Doctors said there was no medical reason to believe she would ever hear. But God proved them all wrong. He not only cured her hearing, but her diabetes as well."

Rachmaan Shalom, 61, claims his heart prayers to God cured his cancer of the colon after chemotherapy and radiation had failed.

"I was amazed when the MRI and a colonoscopy showed no trace of the cancer that had been eating away at his body," said Shalom, who had been treating Rabbi for almost a year.

"The power of prayer is stronger than medicine in this particular case.

"There is no other explanation for Mr. Rabbi's incredible recovery."

Officials at the phone company say they've received thousands of letters from thankful people whose faxed prayers have been crammed in the Wailing Wall.

"They tell about family members and friends who have been cured of everything from arthritis to heart disease," a Bezek spokesman said.

"I want to make it clear, though, that we don't guarantee

Hamburgers made from sewage are a big hit in

YUM! "My kids don't want regular old burgers any more, they want something new," says DIGI Masuda

TOKYO — Millions of dingbat diners are jamming Japan's restaurants from Hokkaido to Kyushu to gobble down giant, juicy hamburgers — made from raw sewage!

Mouthwatering mushmeat, hungry housewives and drooling schoolkids have gone ape over the lip-smacking sandwiches that the people who peddle them say they'll soon be exporting their potty patties to America.

"They're fantastic — just like prime beef, only better," gushed delighted diner Digi Masuda, 40.

"I've had hamburgers at [illegible] restaurants in Japan and this is the best I've ever tasted — the absolute best.

"And my kids think so too. They don't want regular old burgers anymore — they want something new."

Thousands of restaurants — including some of Tokyo's most elegant eateries — began dishing up the new burgers with all the trimmings last summer after canned pet-food makers devised a way to turn sheets of raw sewage into a high-protein meat substitute.

The mucoush have no end was supply of human waste and we were looking for something useful to do with it," said veterinarian Ichiro Oberoi. Dr Hiroshi Ogata

And we thought if we can find a way to get people to eat it and not get sick, why not?"

So the super-tongued scientists began cranking out cheese burgers by the billions and launched a multimillion-dollar public relations campaign to convince folks that this was heaven for a king.

And since July, diners have gone ga-ga over the lavishly garnished sandwiches. Food stunned suppliers have had to strain to keep up with the demand.

"I have to admit that it was a little tough at first, but [illegible]

How to beat the afternoon blahs

It's the middle of the afternoon. You start to feel drowsy. It's hard to concentrate. You're suffering from the most common workday malady — the afternoon blahs.

To avoid the blahs, you need only follow a few simple rules, doctors say.

● First, don't eat a heavy lunch.

"Digesting a large lunch may affect the supply of oxygen to the brain and as a result we feel tired," reveals Dr Benjamin Nalowitz, an expert in the field of nutrition.

Dr H L Newbold offered these additional tips:

● Don't eat as much.

"To sit with a sandwich at your [illegible] work, sap your energy and make you [illegible]

● Stay away from sugary sweets and milk.

"These are foods that are good [illegible] to make people sleepy after lunch."

● Take a walk.

"Light exercise after lunch is a good pick me up."

"If you can't get to a restaurant, try [illegible] Nalowitz says. "They contain more energy," said Dr Nalowitz.

● Try to make your lunchtime peaceful.

"Select quiet surroundings. Try an open air restaurant or even the park."

● Choose your lunchtime companions carefully.

Anxiety and depression are contagious. Do not be tempted to act as a sounding board for troubled customers. Keep your conversations light and cheerful."

Dr Newbold offered less advice for housewives who stay at home. "Socialize with friends or the neighbors

YOU CAN MAKE ANYONE FALL IN LOVE WITH YOU

By LISA MIRAKIS

You can make people do anything you want — by controlling their dreams while they're fast asleep!

That's the astonishing claim of Dr. Ariben Malach, a psychologist and professor of physiology at a top medical school in Tel Aviv, Israel.

"By controlling someone's deepest sleeping urges, whether changing the temperature of his room, you can lead the sleeping mind to obey the slightest thing you want," says Dr. Malach.

"And when the sleeper awakes there will be a little mind-bleep. Some part of your desires that you have implanted there."

...by controlling their dreams!

In the way a wounded soldier might do, or sleep, a person can be induced to take on more people can make suggestions in the night. That will make it much easier to get more dreaded. A man who wants his wife to be a better housekeeper can implant in her through her dreams that a clean and tidy house is her goal."

Dr. Malach bases his theories on a variety of experiments that have shown the power of certain images to affect waking life. Dr. Malach has shown that dreams in "practice sessions" and that people actually learn behaviors from them. They also that people can get these dream scenes out. For this reason, it is possible to influence a person's actions by planting in the brain's subconscious

Here are Dr. Malach's easy-to-follow tips on how to use dream suggestion to control others:

- Wait until your subject is in a deep sleep (usually about an hour after he or she goes to bed).
- Have a clear, precise suggestion in mind. Don't confuse the subject with too many suggestions at once.
- Be patient. After you implant an idea it may take weeks or even months before you see any results.

Dr. Malach says he has also found that hypnosis can help people who have problems with their dreams. He says he has helped people who have nightmares by getting them to change the ending of their dreams. He has also helped people who have had dreams suggesting to change the behavior in their dreams.

"It's a method that has been used and proven," he said

Why husbands never want their fat wives to lose weight!

THIS pretty young lady is a model at a fashion show for big ladies in Newark, N.J.

An amazing new study of married gals who lost huge amounts of flab reveals that their husbands usually didn't like them more — and wanted them to go back to being fat again!

By KELLY FRANCIS
Correspondent

In fact, researchers found that married women who lost weight and kept it off often ended up confronting divorce, separation, jealousy, cheating or sexual problems.

"The patients got better physically and their marriages got worse!" reported researcher Dr. John Marshall.

"The reactions of the husbands ranged from simple disapproval to direct opposition."

Dr. Marshall studied 15 women and two men who underwent surgery for obesity, along with their spouses. He then interviewed 34 other couples, confirming the findings.

"Almost all of the patients were very pleased with their selves after losing an average of 201 pounds," explained Dr. Marshall, a psychiatrist.

"They reported higher self-esteem, more confidence and less depression, and said they felt more attractive as a result of the weight loss.

"But the husbands were very unhappy, reporting jealousy and anxiety and in some cases, impotence. We found a great deal of general [illegible] leading to two divorces, separations and to [illegible] either one or the other partner having an affair."

One of the two men who had the surgery experienced similar problems with his wife. The patients had intestinal bypass operations, removing part of the intestines, giving the body less chance to absorb the calories.

"The weight loss afterward was very rapid, averaging about 13 pounds a month," Dr. Marshall said. "But as the wives became more attractive, the husbands began to get worried that their wives would leave them or make new demands. I don't think the men really wanted skinny wives. As the patients' confidence increased, as the wanted weight to go more and more the brave, it seemed a threat to their husbands."

BANANA PEELS are a popular tobacco substitute, say prisoners.

Inmates smoke fruits and veggies after jail bans cigarettes!

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Officials at a county jail here told inmates they couldn't smoke anymore — and the cons got so desperate they started puffing away on banana peels, collard greens, orange peels and apple peels!

Now authorities are trying to stamp out the smoking habit by denying inmates access to matches and other materials they can use to light up a cigarette.

"That's worked pretty well," Corrections Lt. Charles Monaco of the Guilford County Jail told Weekly World News. "There's practically no smoking now, unless a visitor sneaks someone a cigarette from outside the jail.

"We did this for the safety and security of the inmates. Now there's no danger of fires and there are no cigarettes to damage inmates' lungs."

Authorities at the Guilford jail announced last spring that they intended to ban cigarettes and began the forced smoke-out gradually. Week after week they cut down on the supply of cigarettes, hoping inmates would slowly wean themselves of the habit.

But by the time the boom was lowered on March 15, 1993, and cigarettes were declared off limits, there were still a number of desperate cigarette junkies behind bars.

faced with going cold turkey or finding something else to smoke, the clever inmates began making their own cigarettes, drying their food and then crumbling it up in paper and smoking it.

"I smoke greens," said one inmate, Shelton Locklear. "They send them up for supper. We didn't have anything else to smoke so we dried them out and tried 'em. It tastes like harsh homegrown reefer."

"Everybody else says it stinks. It does that."

Lt. Monaco says that at first a lot of inmates smoked food stuff wrapped in toilet paper, but now only the hard-core tobacco addicts are still trying to roll their own smokes.

"The main problem these days is with inmates who come in off the streets hooked on cigarettes," said Lt. Monaco, who adds that jails all over the country are now trying to eliminate smoking, too.

TIME PORTAL FOUND OVER SOUTH POLE!

WASHINGTON — The discovery of a time portal over the South Pole has stunned scientists who say that we now have the power to alter all of history — by sending people into the past to change it!

That's the word from physicist Marian McLaine, who quoted highly placed intelligence sources as having said that the time portal has sparked a bitter turf battle between the FBI and the CIA for the right to send their own agents back in time.

It is not yet known when federal officials will sanction the history-altering experiment.

But sources say the final decision will likely rest with President Bill Clinton, with possible input from the Security Council at the United Nations.

"Throw away your history books — the world as we know it will no longer exist when the first man goes back in time," Dr. McLaine told reporters.

"By changing one crucial incident in the past, all of history will flow in a different direction. Everything that happened after that point in time will be altered in ways that most of us couldn't even imagine.

"The danger is that we will accidentally change history in a way that will make our lives worse instead of better.

"One wrong move and Adolf Hitler might win World War II instead of lose it.

"That would be a disaster for all of us."

FBI and CIA spokesmen declined to comment on Dr. McLaine's report.

But a White House insider who requested anonymity conceded that "we are investigating the possibility of the existence of a time portal at the South Pole."

The insider went on to say that "we would like nothing more than to send qualified individuals" into the past.

Dr. McLaine said: "According to my sources, British and American scientists found the portal during an expedition to the South Pole last August.

"When they first saw the swirling wisps of gray mist in the sky over the Pole, they thought they were witnessing an ordinary whirlwind.

"But as time went on, and the 'whirlwind' remained intact, they realized they were seeing something extraordinary — and decided to conduct a few tests.

"As the balloon and instrument package rose higher and higher into the sky, the tether became taut — and then suddenly went slack.

"After the scientists pulled it back to the ground by reeling in the rope, they quickly checked the instrumentation and control panel.

"They discovered that the balloon had risen to a height of 100,000 feet — and then vanished. Moreover, the entire rig vanished

What the experts are saying... Here are two points of view

We MUST change the past!

By Joe Ida Andrews / Washington, D.C.

"But making the journey back in time is absolutely unthinkable. That's what scientists in all about ... exploring the unknown. Imagine what man will be able to do when he steps through the time portal! He can avert wars, prevent epidemics and plagues of any kind, avoid hunger and intolerance. He could track down and locate that very first victim of AIDS and halt that insidious disease before it gets started. Think of it! We cannot turn our backs on this incredible opportunity."

HISTORIAN Ida Andrews

DON'T go back in time!

By Rev. Antony Delgado / Denver, Colo.

"If God had meant for man to return to the past, He would have made His will known to us at the time of The Beginning. I believe if we step through that time portal we will commit an unforgivable sin that will condemn us all to the fires of hell. All things must be allowed to happen at their time. It is the will of God. The temptation to alter our history would be too great. Would we prevent Christ from redeeming our sins by dying on the cross? Would we prevent Adam and Eve from sinning in the Garden of Eden? Everything that happens in the universe happens only at the will of God. We must never do anything that might change that."
